Norfolk Makes Fifteen Hits and Roanoke

Many Errors A Poor Game,
NEWPORT NEWS, VA., July 14.—Special.—In spite of Norfolk's difeen hits and half as many errors as Roanoke, the latter won out in the last iming by a score of 9 to 8. The game was uninteresting and full of errors, loosely played and characterized by poor base-running on the part of Norfolk. The latter made a sport in the eighth and tied the score, but one run by her opponents, in the ninth, lost her the game. Score:

NORFOLK, VA., July 14.—Mrs. Mary E. Russeli, held on the charge of having killed her husband at Whaleyville, Nansemond county, Va., about a month ago, has been released, the grand jury refus-ing to return a true bill. Russell went home drunk, as was his habit, and after benting his wife terri-habit, and after beating his section bity, went to sleep.

Some hours later a neighbor going to the house found him dead in bed, his head being beaten in with an axe. The evidence that the deed was done by Mrs. Russell was conclusive, but owing to the treatment she had always received from the terrible condition in her husband, and the terrible condition is which she then was in consequence of the beautiff, but may be a shall be been with ber, and accounts for her dis-

CLEVELAND, 7; NEW YORK, 1.
CLEVELAND, OHIO. July 14.—The New Yorks gave an exhibition of littless ball playing to-day that eclipsed anything ever seen before in Cleveland. It was simply a walkway for the Spiders, who did not try to let themselves out. Only about 600 fans turned out, and many became so disgusted over the farcical exhibition that they left before the came was proposed in the sixth in th finished.

TOO MUCH RAIN.

An Immense Amount of Damage to All Standing Crops.

Following is the weekly crop bulletin of the Virginia Service, issued yester-

The past week has been characterized by a series of heavy daily rains, which have done an immense amount of damage to all standing and harvested but ur housed crops in the southern tiers of counties of the different sections. Many fields of corn adjacent to streams were overflowed and washed away. Oats blown down, tobacco drowned out, and wheat and oats cut but not housed, damaged.

and oats cut but not housed, damaged. The central and northern counties of the Middle and Great Valley sections, while receiving considerable rains were outside of the area of heaviest fall and crops are still in good condition.

Throughout the southern and central counties of the Tidewater section the rainfall has been excessive and continued during the week. Much damage has been caused to crops by washing and beating down, and a good deal of the cut grain which farmers had been unable to house down, and a good dear of which farmers had been unable to house owing to previous wet weather, has sprouted. Cuitivation or securing of crops sprouted. Cuitivation for securing of crops are rendered impossible. Oats are beginning to ret in the field, and many uncut fields have been blown down. Cotton is now in poor condition, and it is thought the yield will be below the aver-ton is now in poor condition, and it is thought the yield will be below the average. Peanuts are injured, and corn in lowlands badly washed.

The conditions outlined for Tidewater Virginia also apply to the Middle Virginia section. Heavy rains every day with overcast sky and cool weather. The bulk of the rainfall was deposited in the more southerly counties, and it is there that the greatest damage is reported. Hay ruined, corn blown down and badly washed, fields in lowlands mostly under water, uncut outs blown down, and tohaccod drowned out is the general report. In the central and northern counties the weather was more favorable, and the crops are still in goost edudition. Tobacco, corn and pastures are atill above an average. Good yield of cats anticipated. Threshing and cultivation of crops at a standstill all the week.

In the Great Valley section he rainfall, though heavy, was not as great as in either of the other two sections, and was more evenly distributed. In some instances, mostly in the southern counties, damage was done to corn standing and oats by wind and rain. Wheat in shocks has done some sprotiting. The eat crop is generally very promising. In scattered localities damage has occurred from adverse weather, and in the vicinity of Blacksburg. Montgomery county, the "smut" has appeared. Pastures are very good.

North Carolina Crops.

very good.

North Carolina Crops,

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—Fellowing is an extract from the summary of the Weekly Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Burean, issued to-day:
North Carolina-Raleigh-Week unfavorable, with excessive rains, flooding orable with excessive rains, flooding rivers from French Broad to Roanoke, destroying thousands of bushels of lowdestroying the crops injured by standing water and local storms. Cotton but slightly damaged, though shedding some forms. A week of fair weather will probably lessen present estimates of damage.
